DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 6-10, 12-20, 22 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Pettersson et. al. (6276428). Pettersson et. al. discloses a movable building door, made up of panels 12, each panel having interior and exterior walls, with two opposite longitudinal edges 14, 16, that extend parallel to one another and substantially normal to a direction of movement of the respective panel and two transverse edges 22, that extend between the longitudinal edges and are aligned parallel to the direction of movement of the respective panel, each panel having interior and exterior walls, the panels being guided along a guide rail 44, 46, that has a curvilinear section, as best seen in Figure 1, in such a way that these panels remain at least approximately parallel to the guide rail, the panels articulated to one another about axes of pivoting 32, 34, parallel to their longitudinal edges by virtue of pivot elements 40, that consist in shapings at the ends of the transverse edges allowing for the panels to be articulated, the panels equipped at their longitudinal edges with male and female anti-trapping profiles, that form a single piece and allow the panels to be articulated, as best seen in Figures 6 and 10, characterized in that the axes of pivoting of the pivot elements at coplanar with eh interior wall of the panel with which they articulate, and in that the pivot elements are connected to the transverse edges of the panels wherein no part of any of the pivot elements project beyond the front and rear walls of the respective panels, wherein the male part of the of the transverse edge has a shaft 62, which defines the axis of pivoting 32, and in that the female part has a drilling 18, to take the shaft, the transverse edge of each of the panels defining a U-sections with parallel flanges 24, 36, connected to the interior and exterior walls of the panel as best seen in Figure 2, wherein the pivot element had a guide device 42, disposed in alignment with portions of the panel between the interior and exterior wall and engageable with the guide rail, wherein the guide device is in connection with the pivot element, in such a way that a rectilinear portion of the respective guide rail is located within the thickness of the panels.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 3/7/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicants attention is drawn to page 8 of the remarks. The applicant states the Petterson reference does not teach or suggest the invention as claimed. The examiner would like to point out the limitations of the claimed invention is clearly taught by the Petterson reference, as advanced above. The applicant states the pivot elements do not require special configuration matching, as required by Petterson. It should be noted that as claimed the Petterson reference clearly teaches the limitations of the claimed invention.

Art Unit: 3634

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
